

Competence Network Adiposity

Summary:

The Competence Network Adiposity is a publicly funded, German-wide research cooperation aiming at gathering data on the development of body weight from initially unrelated projects and bringing together expertise in this field. The German Multicentre Allergy Study (MAS) serves as one cooperating partner and delivers data on weight development spanning the first 20 years of life from the long-term observation of 1314 children.

Principal investigator:

Hauner, MD, Munich

Müller, MD, Kiel

Keil, MD, MSc

Project coordinator:

Grabenhenrich, MD, MSc

Research associate:

Data management:

Reich

Project coordination office:

Project duration:

2012-2013

Project status:

analysis phase, publication phase

Funding:

BMBF

Publication:

<http://www.kompetenznetz-adipositas.de>